Schmidt spells out stand on missiles to Brezhnev

BONN, Nov. 23 (R) - Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told visiting Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev Monday West Germany would deploy new U.S. nuclear missiles in 1983 if the Soviet Umon did not remove its medium-range missiles.

Bonn spokesman Kurt Becker, reporting on the first three-hour meeting between the Soviet and West German delegations, said Schmidt made clear the weapons would be deployed unless a prior agreement was reached at U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks starting next week in Geneva,

Speaking of the Soviet SS-20 mediumrange missiles aimed at Western Europe, the chancellor said: "Mr. General Secretary, 1 have never thought you would press a hutton, but the existence of these weapons could have grave effects." "If you want no American missiles in Europe, you must remove your missiles." Becker quoted him as saying. He said Schmidt pressed on Brezhnev President Reagan's proposals for a 'zero optinn' involving the withdrawal of all land-based medium-range missiles from Europe.

In one apparent departure from the U.S. position, the chancellor said it was necessary to discuss British and French nuclear weapons in the Geneva talks. Reagan offered last week to cancel western alliance plans to deploy U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles if Moscow would withdraw its SS-20, SS-4 and SS-5 missiles, but did not include French or British missiles in the proposal, Schmidt said the first stage of the Geneva talks should lead to a 'zero option' for landbased weapons.

Referring to Soviet demands that U.S. 'forward-based systems' - missiles fired from planes or submarines close to European shores - be included, he said it should be possible to negotiate an approximate balance of nuclear-armed aircraft. But sea-based missiles should be included in the strategic Arms Limitations talks (SALT), stalled since Reagan took office but which he has offered to Becker quoted Schmidt as having said.

Becker said the chancellor rejected Soviet calls for a moratorium on the stationing of medium-range weapons in the East and West. This was unsatisfactory "because it perpetuated a situation which could not lead to a "zero option," he said. Schmidt recalled. that he and Brezhnev signed a declaration during the Soviet leader's last visit to Bonn in 1978, stating that an approximate East-West military balance existed.

'At that time Moscow had deployed 50 SS-20 missiles, each with three warheads, but today there were 250 such missiles with a total of 750 warheads, he said. "And we know where these are aimed, some of them at cities in the federal republic of Germany," he said, according to Becker.

The two leaders began talks Sunday night while driving to Brezhnev's residence at Gymnich Castle, 50 km (30 miles) from Bonn, after the Kremlin chief arrived for a three-day working visit. It is his first trip to the West since Soviet troops intervened in Afghanistan in December 1979 and Schmidt raised the subject of Afghanistan at Monday's meeting.

Becker said the chancellor told Brezhnev: "The continued (Soviet) military presence there is endangering world confidence in the Soviet Union." He asked the Soviet leader to reconsider proposals by the European Economic Community (EEC) for a two-stage conference on Afghanistan leading to a Soviet withdrawal, which Moscow turned down last summer.

But Bocker said disarmament was the main theme of the discussion, which ranged over nuclear arms, European security, the Middle East, Afghanistan, the Gulf, Southeast Asia and China, Southern Africa and central Ателіса.

Schmidt began his remarks by saying it was "an affair of the mind and of the heart that Germans and Russians should work together for peace." He welcomed Brezhnev's reference to West Germany as a partner and, recalling Hitler's atrocities in World War II said the horrors of the past must not be repeated. "That is why you are in Bonn," Becker quoted him as saying.

Reacting to Schmidt statement Leonid Zamyatin, spokesman of visiting Brezhnev, reiterated here Monday that the Soviet Union could oot at present withdraw its forces from Afghanistan "because there are still certain forces that dislike the regime."

"Afghanistan," Zamyatin told a press conference, "is a country that is linked by pact. It can decide its policies itself." To the laughter provoked by that state-ment, be replied: "You can laugh, but I do not understand why no-one gets angry when French or British soldiers spend time in African countries where they have not been invited. It is forever the same case for American soldiers in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, in a letter published in the Daily Die Welt, former Afghan Prime Minister Muhammad Yussof appealed today in an open letter to Brezhnev to all the Soviet army out of Afghanistan.

Yussof, Afghan Prime Minister from 1963 to 1966 and a former ambassador to Moscow, described the intervention in his country as a very bad example of the Soviet policy of cooperation."

Meanwhile, informed sources here said the Soviet delegation to the Schmidt-Brezhnev talks bere hinted Monday that Moscow would be prepared to withdraw certain number of its medium-range SS-20 nuclear missiles from Europe if Washington temporarily dropped its plans to deploy Euromis-

Reagan uses veto to block funding bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — President Ronald Reagan vetoed Monday emergency spending resolution to restore funds to federal agencies and told his cabinet to "cut down, shut down and eliminate all nnnecessary government services."

It was his first veto in 10 months of office. House Democrats conceded they lacked the votes to override the veto and said they would oot even mount an attempt. The rejection sends the measure back to Coogress.

The president went from his session with reporters to an emergency meeting with his cabinet, where he declared, "the bulk of the presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said

"As quickly as possible, people should be sent home. This is not business as usual," Speakes quoted the president as saying.

The spokesman said that by noon, 60 per-cent of the White House's 351 employees would be furloughed without pay. By the end of Tuesday, he added, 400,000 of the government's 2.9 million workers would be off the job. Emerging from the one-hour cabinet ses-

In Capitol Hill, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., in a sharply worded attack on Reagan, said: "He's only out there for the threatrics, believe me." But Speakes said the president, at his cabinet meeting, rejected that charge. The spokesman said Reagan told the session: "this is not theatrics. This is for Reagan said the hill posed "a difficult choice" for him: "Either to sign a budgetbusting appropriations hill that would finance the entire government at levels well above my recommendations, and thus set back our efforts to halt the excessive government spending that has fueled inflation and high interest rates and destroyed investments for new tobs: or to hold the line on spending with a veto, but risk interruption of government activities and services. "I have chosen the latter," Reagan said.

He acknowledged that "the failure to provide a reasonable resolution means that some citizens may be inconvenienced and that there is a possibility of some temporary hardship," but added, "nevertheless, a far greater threat to all Americans is the sustained hardship they will suffer by continuing the past budget-busting policies of hig spending and big deficits."

The latest in the president's budget battles with Congress followed a weekend of nearly non-stop negotiations between House and Senate conferees that ended Sunday night with congressional approval of a compromise spending hill Reagan had vowed to veto.

Reagan had wanted the temporary funding bill cut by $8.5 billion, but Congress would only trim $2 billion - a two percent cut instead of the six percent that the White House wants to pare off all non-defense

Solidarity casts long shadow

Soviet Union faces thirty-minute revolution

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 23 (LOS) - The call for a national "Solidarity-style" strike across the Soviet Union Dec. 1 is being spearheaded by dissidents inside the Baltic states of Estonia, Lativa and Lithnania, backed by exile groups in Sweden.

The strike is set to last-for half-an-hour from 10 to 10.30 am. Leaflets calling for the protest are being distributed in the Estonian capital Tallin and are also circulating among exiles from the Baltic states who live in Swe-

They are printed by "the National Democratic Front of the Soviet Union" and urge people to strike as a "peaceful protest" in support of increased democracy, better food supplies and against Soviet intervention in Estonian dissident Sergei Soldatov, who now lives in West Germany, last week showed copies of the strike leaflet on Swedish television. He said discontent in Estonia had reached a peak in recent years as "the standard of living steadily sinks."

Price increases in most basic foodstuffs earlier this autumn are understood to have increased discontent.

Although the call is for a stoppage of labor "the length and breadth of the Soviet Union," the main cities likely to be affected are all in the Baltic states: Tallin, Tartu and Parnn in Estonia, Riga in Latvia and Vilnius and Kaunas in Lithuania.

Swedish newspapers and other media have beadlined the strike call as the first sign that "the Polish sickness" is spreading to the rest of the Eastern block. Staffan Teste, for the daily Dagens Nyheter, who is in Tallin, reports that the strike is the main topic of conversation in the Estonian capital. Leaflets are being passed from person to person quite openly on the streets, he says.

Teste's impression is that while the protest is Balt-inspired, many Russian immigrants to Estonia and the other Baltic states will be joining the action. Lithuanian dissident Atis Lejins, who lives in Stockkholm, said the bogged-down Soviet action in Afghanistan was a major cause of unrest in the Baltic

"They've stopped sending back the coffins now," he said. "They bury them out there. But, as a constant reminder, people are coming back crippled or psychologically distrubed by what they have been through in Afghanistan." Saudi Arabian plan dominates Fez talks pation by four European countries in the Sinai peacekeeping force and the Saudi Arabian peace plan for Middle East dominated Monday's talks at the Arab foreign ministers' conference, which met behind closed doors to prepare for this week's sumunt here.

After Monday's announcement that France, Britain, Italy and the Netherlands would take part in a multinational Sinai force after Israeli withdrawal next April, British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, the current European Council of Ministers' chairman, reportedly informed his Arab counterparts here this did not imply European backing for the Camp David accords.

But conference sources said the European decision was greeted with scorn, and that Faruk Kaddum, leader of the Palestine Libcration Organization (PLO) delegation, had described the move as" de lacto participation in the Camp David accords and the imperialist presence in the Middle Hast," Sources close to the enaference suggested that most Arab participants shared the same feelings as the Palestinians on the European initialitye.

In his address to the session Sunday, Funsia's Khbi warned the West European countries that they would put their political, economic and cultural relations with the Arabs at risk if they contributed troops to the multinational force.

Saudi Arabia's Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal said that during the two-day meeting nane of the other foreign ministers had indicated that his government had rejected the Kingdom's peace platt. He described the discussion so far as constructive and served the ultimate and common aim of establishing a just peace in the region.

Prince Saud who formally submitted the plan to the meeting Sunday; welcomed new ideas that will serve the attainment of a comprehensive peace based on justice and said that the Kingdom was determined to see that such a plan becomes Arab and not merely a Saudi enterprise. The Arah states were convinced of the crucial importance of peace in the region. He hoped that the summit will take a sanged a success it. Saudi suchian plan." It is Arab unanimity that we want," he declared.

The ministers also debated measures to end civil war, Israeli attacks and other forcign interference in Lebanon.

Libya and Syria meanwhile urged the meeting to exclude Sudan from the Alab League because of its close links with Egypt, Arah diplomatie sources reported. The sources said the Arab foreign ministers and the PLO took no action on the proposal, but Libyan and Syrian delegates were expected to renew it at the summit conference opening here Nov. 25, Egypt was expelled from the Arab League in 1978 for signing the Camp David agreement with Israel.

Libyan Foreign Minister Aabdelaari Obeidi and Syrian Fnreign Minister Abdelhalim Khaddam told the meeting their governments would never accept Egypt's return to the Arah League unless the new Egyptian government reverses the Camp David peace policy of the late President Anwar Sadat and "rejoins the common struggle" against Israel, Tunisia favored Egypt's return to the League.

Meanwhile Damascus radio reported Monday that Syria in its first positive statement on the Saudi Arabian plan said it will study and discuss the eight-point blueprint in a "brotherly spirit" at the Arab summit. In another development coming shortly news agency said King Khaled Monday received an unspecified oral message from

Allegations baseless, Yamani says

RIYADH, Nov. 23 (SPA) -- Information Minister Dr. Muhammad Abdo Yamani Sunday described as "baseless" what some news agencies attributed to an unnamed Saudi Arabian diplomat in Fez that the Kingdom's peace plan assumes that there is a tactical conformity with the Camp David Yamani said the attribation was false and added that the diplomat's name would have ment. He said "it is not our habit tn make statements in secrecy or behind false names, hut we are used to declaring our stances openly and frankly."

The minister said it has been lately nbserved that false statements are made against the Kingdom to damage the popularity of the Saudi Arabian peace plan by projecting it as an individual initiative. He reaffirmed that it is a Saudi and an Arab plan to bring a just and lasting peace in the Middle Yamani reiterated that the Kingdom's peace plan had absolutely no links with the Camp David accords which the Kingdom has officially rejected. He added that any alleged relationship was only intended to distort the image of Saudi Arabia. The Kingdom's plan primarily aims to serve the Palestine issue and, accordingly, the Palestinians have the right to the first and last words, he said, adding that the most fundamental point in the Saudi Arabian plan is its keenness on Arab unanimity and the need to carry it out.

Officials clarify insurance benefit eligibility

By Alan Kenney

JEDDAH, Nov. 23 — A person receiving pension or refund of contributions from the General Organization for Social Insurance (GOSI) should expect only the five percent be contributed, and not the additional eight percent from the employer, so information bulletin hy GOSI's public relations department said recently.

. The clarification came in answer to a questair tem, no savings from the contribution returns are realized. On the contrary, the total amount of contributions paid by both the employer and the worker can hardly meet the various benefits/liabilities in the long run. Taking this fact into consideration, the law provides for the State's contribution to funding the system and subsidy to cover any deficit that may result from the successive increase of pensions and compensation paid in the future."

"Hence, if social insurance systems adopt the principle of equilibrium between the contributions paid in respect of the insured worker and the benefits awarded to him or to his heirs, no system in the world will he able to keep on paying pensions to beneficiaries throughout their lifetime and otherwise to their heirs so long as they are eligible," the report said.

Consequently, it may not be assumed that every worker should receive whatever contributions have been paid for him, GOSI said. The worker should rather understand that he is affiliated with a social welfare system whereby each member receives a share compatible with his own social circumstances, it

It is oot a condition or requirement that the disability case should occur while the insured is on the job," according to the report. It adds that the worker is covered as sooo as he become insured and he so continues until his insurance benefits become payable or he dies.

However, according to the insurance laws. there must be three conditions the person should meet before being considered entitled to non-occupational disability pensions. The first is that according to medical assessment, the disability should have made the insured unable to earn at least one-third of his previous wages in his usual occupation or in a similar occupation that is compatible with his capabilities, age, physique and mental aptitudes and vocational training.

The condition will not have been met if the injured person earn more than one-third of his wage in his usual occupation, hecause the non-occupational disability is inteoded to mean the incapacity to do any joh. GOSI reported.

The second condition is that the disability should be so substantial that it should last at least six months. And the third condition is related to the time of affliction with disability. This means that disability should occur before the insured reaches the age of 60, the

America, Israel seen split over strategic pact

TEL AVIV, Nov. 23 (AFP) — Deep differences bave appeared between Israeli and American teams negotiating a strategic cooperation agreement in Washington, only a week before Defense Minister Ariel Sharon leaves for the U.S. capital, it was reported

The daily Davar said that the Americans wanted to lay the groundwork for efficient cooperation in a crisis, while the Israelis wanted the strategic cooperation to be on a permanent and regular basis.

Sharon is demanding that the United States stock without delay not only medical material but weapons and military equipment in Israel, the paper said.

Last week both U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State Alexander Haig played down the importance of cooperation with Israel, but U.S. Amhassador to Israel Samuel Lewis said after a meeting here Monday with Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir that be was convinced the agreement would he signed during Sharon's

The funeral at his village of Balzen, north of Jerusalem, was attended only by family and leaders of the Israeli-hacked village leagues, one of which he headed.

Al-Khatib, 60, was shot inthe head last Tuesday while driving through the West Bank and died in Jerusalem's Hadassah Hospital Sunday. His son Khadem, 23, who was in the car with him was killed instantly.

The Palestine Liberation Organization elaimed responsibility calling him a collaborator with Israel.

Kreisky, Burg fail to agree on Palestine issue

VIENNA, Nov. 23 (Agencies) - A twohour talk here Sunday night between Israeli Interior Minister Josef Burg and Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky failed to narrow their disagreement over the Palestinian problem, the chancellor told newsmen. "I hope our differences of opinion will be surmounted some day," be said.

Burg informed Kreisky of the situation of the negotiations with Egypt on Palestinian autonomy.

The chancellor said he had no intention of trying to mediate in the Mideastern conflict. Burg also said Israel will bonor its signature under the Smai agreement and return part of the region still beld by its troops. He said Israel so far returned 80 percent of the occupied Sinai and would return the remaining 20 percent by April 26 next year, the date stipulated by the agreement.

Burg said he was optimistic that Egyptian President Hosni Muharak would continue to follow the agreement signed by assassinated President Anwar Sadat.

Four European states agree to join Sinai peace force

PARIS, Nov. 23 (Agencies) - France, Britain, Italy and the Netherlands announced Monday they were ready to join a U.S.sponsored peacekeeping force for the Sinai. A statement issued in Paris linked the decision to the 1980 European Economic Community (EEC) peace initiative on the Middle East which has been rejected by Israel.

It said the United States, Egypt and Israel had been informed of the decision in a message which also set out the political terms for participation.

The Arab League has warned that participation in the peacekeeping force could jeopardize European ties with the Arab world.

The joint text was the subject of a monthlong dispute between the EEC, Israel and the United States. The message, released simultaneously by the four European governments, said they saw their participation as contributing to the process of an overall settlement in the Middle East.

"They consider their support for the agreements relative to the implementation of the Egyotuin-Israeli peace treaty as completely distinct from and independent from the rest of the Camp David process," the message said.

The peacekeeping force of : 2,500 men. due to take up position when Israel withdraws on April 25 from the last on-third of the Sinai it occupies, forms part of the Egyption-Isreali agreement which followed the U.S.-sponsored Camp David accords.

The European message said the four gov. eraments regarded their action as helping to implement United Nations Resolution 242 on Israel's withdrawal from territories occupied in 1967.

Meanwhile, Egypt Monday walksomed the participation of the four states in the Sinal force and said This was a positive contribution to the achievement of peace in the Middle

SUMMIT HOPES

Throughout this week, the eyes of the Arab world will be turned toward Fez in Morocco, where the Arab Summit is due to be held. At present, Arab foreign ministers are bolding their preparatory meetings. On Wednesday the twenty fifth, the Kings and beads of state will sit down to business.

The task they will be facing is not an easy one: it is to determine the common thrust of pan-Arab policy in the post-Sadat era. The leaders of the Arab world know as they meet that the nation as a whole desires most ardently that they reach an agreement on how best to mobilize all Arab resources to achieve the twin aims of liberation and development. The indications so far are hopeful, and the Fez Summit is expected to constitute an advance on the Amman one.

Among the two aims, the more urgent one is that of seeking a just and lasting settlement for the Palestinian problem. The discussion here will center around the Saudi peace plan as enunciated by Prince Fahd ibn Abdul Aziz. While Saudi Arabia of course hopes for unanimity around it as it stands, there will certainly be room for discussion.

It is of great significance in this connection that the summit will be chaired by Lebanon: the two issues of a settlement for Palestine and of Lebanon are now intimately linked, and it is certain the question of the situation in South Lebanon will come under consideration.

Beyond this, the summit will take up those issues of economic integration and development dealt with in the Amman Summit — with the aim of monitoring how far their implementation has gone, and whether there is need to revise or amend the goals originally set.

Saudi Arabian press review

The Arah foreign ministers' call for Arab states in forget their differences in order to promote regional peace and a united Arah front against their "enemies" amid growing support for the Saudi Arabian peace plan in the Middle East appeared for editorial comments in Monday's news-

Al-Jazirah expressed hope that the Arah summit will ensure Arah national and unanimous support for the Kingdom's eight-point plan. The paper urged all Arab states to announce their support for the Kingdom's plan, as it would serve as a "viable alternative" for promoting reginual peace and security.

There does not exist any principle or point in the Kingdom's plan which may favor Israeli interests, as falsely claimed by its opponents. On the contrary, the plan reflects the aspirations and objectives of the Arah and Islamic nation," the paper added. Al-Madinah noted that Saudi Arabia Sunday put the Kingdom's peace plan on the agenda of tthe Arah foreign ministers meeting with the basic aim of achieving unanimous Arab support, in order to ensure the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people and a comprehensive solution hased on Israel's withdrawal from all the occupied Arah territories.

'The Kingdom's plan deals with the Palestinian issue with an open mind, a matter that has gained the support of PLO Chief Yasser Arafat. If the Arabs adopt the plan, then the doors will he opened for realizing Arab aspirations and goals especially welfare and orosperity for the Palestinians' the paper added. Okaz disclosed that the Kingdom's peace plan is pursuing in a practical way the Arah desire for seeking a peaceful, just and comprehensive settlement of the Mideast issue. The paper urged the Arab leaders in demnistrate solidarity and unity in supporting the Kingdom's peace plan for realizing Arab goals.

Al -Bilad felt the Arabs' unanimous support will he the cornerstone for achieving a just and comprehensive peace in the Middle

Referring to the worldwide support given to the Kingdom's peace plan, the paper said "this backing proves the fact that the plan is the only useful alternative for a fair and durable peace in the region."

Deploring the aggressive Zionist practices in the occupied Arab lands and southern Lebanon, the paper said Israel opposes the Kingdom's peace plan because it will permanently end its hostile actions and aggressive designs in the region. Al-Nadwa called on the Arah leaders to adopt the Kingdom's peace plan and formulate a unified Arab policy for restoring a military balance between the Arabs and Israel to counter the continued Zionist aggressions in the

Zimbabwe's whites still use abusive terms for blacks

By Bernd Debusmann

SALISBURY --"So you are based in Kenya," a young white enquired of a visitor to a country club nutside Salisbury. "How are your houts up there? As bad as ours?"

He squinted into the sun from his deckchair on the immaculately manicured lawn around the swimming pool and, noticing the visitor's hesitation, added helpfully: "You know, bouts, munts, kaffirs, afs...nurs are difficult."

The statement was made a day after Robert Mugabe, prime minister of Africa's youngest nation, complained that the attitudes of whites toward blacks had not changed since white-ruled Rhodesia became independent Zimbabwe in February last year.

In this angriess denunciation of whites since independence, Mugabe accused them of exploiting hlack workers and calling them ahusive names. "From today. I give you my permissinn to hit everyone who calls you kaffir." he told a mass rally. But don't go heating the innocent ones, only those who ill-treat ynu." For a visitor back here for the first time in six years, nne nf the most remarkable aspects nf independent Zimhahwe is how freely whites still use derogatory terms for blacks - at least in conversation with other whites. While "kaffir" and "af" appear in he the minst widespread expressions, "hout" and the "munt" are running closely behind and are as deeply resented by Africans as Kaffir.

"Hout" is an ahhreviation of the Afrikaans "houtkop" (woodhead) and "munt" is short for "muntu" which means man in Zulu and a number of other Southern African languages. The plural of muntu is Bantu.

The use of linguistic shorthand for blanket condemnation of awhole race is not restricted to whites. In recent speeches, hlack government officials have described the white community with the term 'magunu' which means Boer in the widely-spoken Magunu is a term of loathing applied to whites no matter whether they are Afrikaners, South Africans of Dutch desert, or not. In Afrikaans, Boer simply means farmer. Some black Zimhabweans, taking their cue from the language of hlack power in the United States, now refer to memhers of the former white ruling class as "guruve chena" - white pig.

To what extent the use of such phrases signifies deeply-held racist beliefs Is open to conjecture. But language has clearly become one of the more sensitive issues in relations between hlacks and whites. A few days after Mugabe gave his hlack compatriots license to use force in retaliation to terms of abuses, his minister of mines, Maurice Nyagumho, took up the theme in a speech to miners at a colliery west of Singling out whites who used the word "kaffir," be said the government would make snre they left the country even if they possessed skills peeded for as reconstruction after seven years of bitter busb war. "If their leaving means a breakdown in our economic development, let it happen." Nyagumbo was quoted as saying.

Many whites here are firmly convinced that this breakdown is inevitable. Anyway "the munts are running the place down," grumbled a businessman in Salishury's elegant Meikles Hotel. "They are making a mess of it, mark my words, just as they've done elsewhere in Africa. Lonk at what happened But by almost any standard, Zimbabwe has been a success so far. Pre-independence predictions of economic chaos, corruption, nepotism and tribalism - the curse of many black African states have failed to come true. "One of the most peculiar things about Zim-habwe whites," said a European resident here, "is that many of them seem to fervently hope that the place will disintegrate - and their nwn livelihood with it - just so that they are proved right."

Fears of the future and unwillingness to live under a government run by hlacks have caused a steady exodus of whites, many of whom left for white-ruled South Africa. The white population has shrunk from a peak of 270,000 to 180,000. On average, 1,500 per mnnth are still leaving. Of those who remain, roughly two thirds are racists, if you believe the leader of the white Liberal Democratic Party, Andre Holland.

He told the National News Agency Ziana that 40 percent of the white community supported his party. The nther 60 percent, he said, supported" the old racists" in the Republican Front (formerly the Rhodesian Front) which declared unilateral independence from Britain in 1965 to stave nff hlack

"I don't think it's possible to quantify the problem," said a diplomat. "Some people speak of kaffirs by force of habit. Are they necessarily racists? Some whites have jnined Mugabe's ZANU-PF Party. How do you know they inined out of conviction rather than to protect their position and lifes-

Many whites here enjoy a standard of living equaled in few other countries. In the sedate suburbs of highlands and Borrowdale, homes with swimming pools and tennis courts are the rule rather than the exception.

Some residents of Salisbury's moneyed suburbs obviously find it hard to stomach that their previnusly all-white preserves are now npen to blacks. In one district someone changed a road sign - Montgomery Road briefly became Muntgomery Road.

Surprising in a country where the ruling whites fought black nationalism not least for the preservanon of privileges. Zimbabwe's wealthy whites can enjoy the luxury of their suburban homes with little fear of violence.

In similar areas of Lusaka, capital of Zimbabwe's northern neighbor. Zambia, homes are routinely protected by 24-hour guards. In Nairobi, there is hardly a wealthy home without guards, hurglar alarms, and iron hars in front of all the windows.

"The trouble here is that many whites are just not well-traveled enough to realize how good they have it," observed one foreign resident. "This is anything but a cosmopolitan community."

During 15 years of international sanctions against Rhodesia, the isolation of its white population was increased by a constant barrage of propaganda by the tightly-controlled mass media which painted the world in simplistic, literally blackand-white, terms.

Some white liberals cite Rhodesian government propaganda as one of the chief reasons why old attitudes tend to die hard, and why whites tend to enjoy retiring he hind their fences to complain about the "munts" and tell jnkes at their expense. - (R) KAKUL, Pakistan -Martial traditions are revered in this leafy corner of northwest Pakistan, home of the country's military academy. Cadet units bear the names of Muslim conquerors whose legions swept down from the Central Asian steppes centuries ago.

The Mogui emperors left a legacy of Islam and the sword. After independence in 1947, two crossed sahres were adopted as the symbol of the Pakistani army, today a disciplined force of 420,000 menthat has become the strongest national institution.

Kakul's "gentlemen" cadets sip tea and munch walnut cake in a lounge decorated with portraits of soldiers posthumnusly decorated with the highest gallantry award during Pakistan's three wars with India. They are not just heroes killed in the service nf their country, an officer explains, but each is a shaheed" - a martyr who, according to Islamic belief, gained immediate entry into paradise.

A cadet's curriculum includes instruction in religinn, and a lecture series nu totalitarianism is mandatory each year.

Thrice in the short history of Pakistan, generals have asserted their brand of authoritarian rule. If the past is any guide tn the future, at least some nf these earnest young men in khaki will someday he maintaining control over civilians.

"All of our modern army traditions, from bagpipes to nur marching style, are British - except one," said a former hattalion commander who, like the nation's president, Gen. Muhammad Zia ul-Haq, was commissioned into the British colonial army of undivided India." The British never taught us to take nver governments."

Zia whn seized power in a bloodless 1977 coup, has never appeared stronger. In the past years, the 57-year-old general has thrown his civilian political opponents into disarray, his developing econnmy has grown a comfortable 5.7 percent and he has received firm offers of support from Western countries which earlier scorned him for allowing the execution of former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali

More than anything else, Zia's deft use of unexpected, if not calamitous, events has helped his regime crush opposition at home and seek help from ahroad. The 1979 Soviet military intervention in neighboring Afghanistan and the subsequent flood of Afghan refugees, has not unsettled Pakistan hut has worked to its advantage.

Overnight, the view of Pakistan in Western capitals - especially Washington - changed from that of an erratic, military-ruled country with nuclear ambitions to a "frontline" state of strategic importance to the West. The Western powers set aside concerns expressed before about the development of an "Islamic" bomh and their displeasure over Bhutto's hanging.

Zia gambled in February. 1980 when he rejected as "peanuts" a $400 million aid offer hy U.S. President Jimmy Carter. He looked the potential winner recently as President Ronald Reagan's aides hegan lohbying Congress to approve a six-year package which includes the sale of 40 F-16 jet warplanes and $3.2 hillion in credits for aid and other arms.

Last March, his government was forced to yield wheh Al-Zulfikar, an anti-Zia terrorist group led by Bhutto's son Murtaza, hijacked a Pakistani jetliner and killed a young diplomat-hostage in Kabnl, Afghanistan. Again he managed to extract considerable gain from a crisis.

After releasing 54 political prisoners as demanded, Zia moved decisively against major opposition parties and there were no public protests as he jailed 2,000 people. The chief target of the crackdown was the month-old Movement for the Restoration of Democracy (MRD), a coalition of nine apposition parties whose fledgling campaign was viewed as Zia's most serious challenge at the

It became linked in the public's mind with the hijacking because its largest component, the former ruling Pakistan People's Party, is led by Nusrat Bhutto, widow of the former prime minister.

"The hijacking was a real hlow," said Nafis Siddigi, an MRD official who was detained six months. When top movement figures like Mrs. Bhutto were eventually freed, they were prohibited from traveling to other provinces. The bans, along with continuing strict press censorship, have kept the MRD from regaining a fraction of its original vigor. The U.S. arms agreement gave the MRD a timely issue because of the widespread belief here that the United States is "unreliable" that it failed to provide material support during Pakistan's wars with India. The 1971 war resulted in the lnss of East Pakistan now the nation of Bangladesh.

When the MRD got around to attacking the deal, four months after it was negotiated, there was no indication anyone was still listening. According to the U.S. State Department, about 500 dissidents remain in jails. Among them Mrs. Bbutto's daughter Benazir, "The jails seem to be revolving doors," a West European ambassador commented recently. "Pakistam's are jailed by Zia not so much as to be punished as to he signaled it is time to cool it."

There have been no clues on martial-law court decisions such as the one in which a 35-year-old union official was sentenced to be flogged and imprisoned for a year on a charge of inciting hatred of the army. The defendant produced medical records showing he was seriously ill and asked for lenience. The military judge denied the request and two weeks later the union official died of kidney

After trouncing the apposition movement, Zia began talking about a council of hand-picked civilian advisers to help formulate a new Islamic political system for Pakistan since - he now claimed — the country was not ready for parliamentary democracy.

High courts were ripped of their power to review any military act or decision. Judges who refused to swear new lnyalty oaths were forced to resign. Recalcitrant hureaucrats have found active or retired army personnel moving into their depart-

The Islamization campaign has helped Zia neutralize the Muslim clergy which proved a powerful force during a bloody anti-Bhutto movement in 1977, immediately before Zia's conp. Zia won the religious faction's hlessing for introducing Islamic courts, a compulsory Muslim charity tax and Koran-sanctioned punishments. (AP)

Grim outlook for U.S. economy isy Peter Pringle

WASHINGTON — The economic statistics of the United States have been so grim recently that even the unsinkable Pollyanna would have sold her blue chip stocks.

Consider the latest figures: the nation's unemployment rate rose to eight percent in October, the highest level since the 8.2 percent in December 1975 when the economy was also in recession. For blacks the jobless rate is more than double, at 16.7 percent, the highest since 1972 when records for blacks were first kept.

Even worse is to come as the recession deepens, forecast the experts. And certainly, the hellweather of the U.S. economy, the automobile industry, suffered a decline in sales of 27.2 percent last month.

After some bitter wrangling with his close economic advisers, the president has finally admitted that his critics were right; be couldn't combine large tax cuts with a huge increase in defense spending and also end up with a balanced hudget - at least not by the end of his first term in 1984.

So where does that leave Reaganomics and the magical supply-side economics? Cartoonists have recently dressed Reagan up as a witch wandering into Wanderland asking the assembled company of fantasy figures: "Excuse me, I'm looking for a halanced budget." This is all nonsense, say the doctrinal supplysiders. They point out that inflation and interest rates are coming down and that, by next spring, the economy will be back on its feet again. They refuse to go back on the tax cuts nr the defense program just for the sake of fulfilling the promise of a balanced budget. "If we can't do it (balance the budget) in 1984, we'll have to do it later," said the president. The new round of gloom has split the president's advisers, however, and separated Reagan from his wunderking budget director, David Stockman, who was the dazzling optimist of the supply-side theory last spring. Now Stockman is no longer so optimistic. He and some others in the administration believe that the enormous deficits - $80 billion in 1982 - will frighten financial markets, clash with the right money supply of the Federal Reserve Board, keep interest rates high and stall recovery. Stockman favors paring back the tax cuts to reduce

For the moment the pointical embarrassment of allowing the timetable for a balanced budget to slip may only be minimal for the president. Although Reagan used to claim that" inflation resultation all that deficit spending," and then popularized the theory with an image of the government's debt stacked miles high in dollar bills. Americans care less about balancing the hudget than they do about keeping down inflation and bringing down interest

Both of those are happening. The question is, for how much longer? (ONS)

Three major zoological worlds meet here

ray of hope is stimulated for survival of endangered species

The Wildlife of Saudi Arabia and its Neighbors Stacey International, London, 1981. $R120

JEDDAH - While man has profited vastly fram the technology revolution other of God's creatures have not fared so well. Indeed, the combination of two inventions, the autnumbile and the rifle, have spelled disaster for animals around the world, including the Arahian Peninsula.

Tngether, the gun and the car gave man such an advantage over his quarry that the natural balance between hunter and hunted became hopelessly lopsided. The result: Many species today cling to their continued existence by a mere thread; others are already extinct.

To further complicate matters, the delicate ecology of a particular environment is immediately threatened by the disappearance of nne of its members. In the cycle of life one creature depends nn another for its survival. Thus when the gazelle disappeared from Saudi Arahia, so eventually did its predator, the cheetah.

The extent of the fauna loss, and the rays of hope for saving the survivors, are set nut with great clarity in an excellent new book, The Wildlife of Saudi Arabia and its Neighbors, the latest in the list of top quality publications about the Kingdom that have issued from the London Puhlishing Hnuse, Stacey International. Earlier well known publications include Bedouin Jewellery of Saudi Arabia, The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and Jeddah Old and New.

To the company's principal, Tom Stacey, the importance of the new book is the stimulus it will give to what is already a committed program of conservation in the Kingdom. From King Khalid down, strenuous efforts are being made not only to conserve what remains through, among other things, the establishment of national parks, but also to replace species previously considered lost. The best known story is that of the Arabian nryx the famous unicorn of mythology.

As the authors of the section nn mammals, John and Patricia Gasperetti, put it "the story of the nryx is a beacon of hope to those fixed upon preserving the wildlife heritage of Arahia for future generations."

Tn zoologists in the 1960s it seemed as if the death knell for the nryx had already been tolled. But a handful were captured alive perhaps the last remaining on the Peninsula and these were transported with great care to Kenya, then th Arizona. In the American desert the herd finurished. Then, just last year a specially chosen group was hrought again to the lands of their origin. Zoologists are optimistic that the nryx sent back to the wilds of Arabia, in the expansive Wahiba sands of central Oman, will an forth and multiply and reestablish their line.

"The extraordinary range of species to he found...stems from Arabia's remarkable climatic and geological evolution at the point where three major zoological worlds meet," The influence of these three regions — the Palearctic (nowadays Europe, North Africa and north Asia), the Afrotropical and the Oriental - is reflected in fauna past, and still surviving. As nne of the book's major contributors, nated zoologist Professor Wilhelm Buttiker, writes:

"The evalutionary link with Africa is particularly strong. Many African animals including the hyena, haboon, and leopard, as well as hundreds of species of snails, birds, insects, fish and reptiles are elements of African fauna found in Arabia."

The influence of animals from the north is found in the wolf, which occured during cooler climatic periods, the Ice Ages; from the east came species of the goat, which were able to cross the land bridge which existed in the Strait of Hormuz region in prehistoric times. When the climate changed many creatures adapted to suit their new environment.

What is gone and what remains is not entirely clear: The lesser kudu, a spiral horned antelope was last shot out in the '50s; the eheetah was last sighted in the early '60s and is feared extinct in the region; it is possible that leopards still exist in the Musandam Peninsula; and ostrich existed within living

However, the publication concentrates on the survivors. And there are many. The Arahian tahr, a species of mountain goat, was saved just in the nick of time, and lives a protected life in Oman; colonies of haboons; desert wolves and foxes; the list is surprisingly extensive as one glance at the book will

What Wildlife of Saudi Arabia also does it highlight the many insect, reptile, marine and bird species that floursih in the Kingdom.

The book is divided into five main parts: mammals; hirds; reptiles and amphibians; insects and arachnids (spiders); and marine life. This latter chapter is of utmost importance because, unlike the wildlife on land, the creatures of the sea have lived thus far a relatively unscathed existence. But as industrialization and other development continues apace the Red Sea, long considered as unique environment by marine scientists, and its inhabitants will come under increasing

The suspect, George Manuel Bosque, 26, vanished Aug. 15, 1980, along with the money. He allegedly persuaded the driver of a Brink's armored ear into leaving the vehicle during a routine cash pickup at San Francisco International Airport.

The cash theft surpassed the amount takeo in the famous 1950 Brink's robbery in Boston, Massachusetts, which netted thieves $1.22 million, and it was the second largest boldup in the nation's history, after a $5 million robbery in New York in 1978.

The money was destined for the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco.

Bosque, a San Francisco police-certified special patrolman who made nighttime security checks for husinesses, had been employed by Brink's three to four years, Brink's spokesman Robert Waller said at the time of the heist. A Brink's spokesman later described him as "trusted and thoroughly

New book says MI-5 head was Soviet spy

British spy says he was told in the early 1960s by a KGB agent that the Soviets had placed one of their agents at the very highest level of MI-5" and that he suspects the then acting director of the British counterintelligence service, Sir Roger Hollis, to have been the Soviet "mole."

The allegation by retired British spy Grabille Wynne, in a book published Monday, appeared likely to revive the dehate over Hollis, who headed MI-5 from 1956 to 1965 and died in 1973, and further blacken the image of Britain's scandal-plagued intelligence services.

In March of this year, charges against Hollis published by British journalist Chapman Piccher forced British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to appoint a special security commission to investigate the spy affair. The results of the probe have never been disclosed.

However, nn March 26, Mrs. Thatcher told parliament an earlier investigation of 'certain leads that suggested' Hollis was a Soviet spy had led British intelligence chiefs to conclude "he had not been an agent of the Russian intelligence service."

Wynne, in his book The Man From Odessa, says a top Russian agent who passed secrets to the West, Col. Oleg Penk-ovsky, told him that the KGB had "placed one of their agents at the very highest level of MI-5, so they must have now known of who I am and what I am doing."

Though he does not meotion Hollis by name. Wynne, says,: "If there was some connection between the man Penkoyaky feared, but could oot name, and the individual who has lately been accused of being the mole - who was in fact the acting direc-... tor at the time Peokovsky poioted the accusing fioger - all I can say is that I would not be in the least surprised."

Wynoe was imprisoned by the Soviets along with Penkovsky in 1965 wheo the latter was unmasked.

The new allegations of a top-level mole in British iotelligence follow disclosures last mooth that Leo Long, a retired British spy and later a film company executive, was the so-called "fourth man" in a Soviet spy ring headed by Anthony Blunt.

Blunt, who confessed to security officials in 1963 and was publicly unmasked in 1979. admitted to recruiting three other men while he was a professor at Britain's prestigious Cambridge University - who later became Soviet spies.

The three were Guy Burgess, a British agent in Washington who defected in 1951 apparently after being warned by Brunt that British agents suspected him; Donald Mac-Lean, a high-level intelligence operative who also defected in 1951; and Harold "Kim" Philby, who fled to Moscow from his post in Beirut io 1963 after being warned his cover had been blown. Soviet recruiting also was said to have been active at Britain's other top university.

Oxford, where Hollis was educated. Londoo's Sunday Times and Observer newspapers on Sunday named Romanianborn American film producer Louis Dolivet as having been accused of spying by the British government in the 1940s.

Dolivet is brother-in-law of American Michael Straight, who The Sunday Times said had been recruited by Blunt at Cambridge and confessed to the FBI and British intelligence in 1963 that he passed secrets to the Soviets.

Straight, however, denies he spied for the Soviets and says he voluntarily told intelligence officials about Blunt's approach. The Sunday Times story is a vicious story," he told the Associated Press from his home in Bethesda, Maryland, adding he was considering a libel suit.

Two women injured protest in London bombing imF loan

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP) - A boohytrapped IRA homb, disguised as a toy gun, exploded Monday morning outside a British Army base at Woolwich, southeast London, injuring two women, police said.

The ehild's plastic toy had been packed with two to three ounces (60-93 grams) of explosives and was rigged with an antihandling device. said Comdr. Mike Richards, head of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist branch.

One of the women lost three toes from her right foot in the hlast and was in serious condinion. A Labrador dog they were taking for an early morning walk, and which was seen sniffing around the gun, had a leg blown off and later died.

The IRA said Monday in a statement issued through its provisional Sinn Fein headquarters in Belfast: "The Irish Republican Army elaims responsibility for the bomb attack this morning at Woolwich harracks."

The attack came on the day when Protestants in Northern Ireland planned a "day of action" to protest British failure to elamp down on the mostly Roman Catholic IRA. which is fighting a guerrilla campaign to end

Richards said Monday's device was spotted Sunday night by military personnel at the Royal Artillery harracks but they thought it was just a toy dropped by a child. "It is the fifth different type of device that has been used during the present campaign on the mainland," be said.

One nearby resident. Lilliuzgay, 53, said: "I wondered what the hell was happening and raced to my balcony. I looked to Government House and saw a woman lying on the pavement covered in blood."

Opposition groups attacked Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government Monday over a $5.8 billion loan it has negotiated with the International Monetary Fund (IMF). The government was also criticized for its new anti-strike powers and over the caste killing of 24 untouchables (Harijans) in nonhern India last week.

The controversies dominated the resumption of parliament after a recess. Most opposition members walked out of the lower house (Lok Sahha) when they failed to get an immediate debate on the controversial IMF loan. They said they wished to censure the government for hypassing parliament in concluding the loan.

Finance Minister Ramaswami Venkatraman told the house that the rupee would not be devalued as a loan condition. He said the IMF had been told that the measures India would adopt as conditions for the loan would be "fully in line with our declared policies accepted by parliament."

Communist Party member Indrajit Gupta asked for the text of the loan agreement and said "there has been no occasion when parliament has been bypassed like this."

Opposition groups called for a full debate on the massacre by upper-easte Hindus of the Harijans in a village in Uttar Pradesh state. One member said the Harijans were unarmed while the killers bad modern weapons. Home Minister Zail Singh said the police had been directed to supply small arms to Harijans at government expense wherever there was a threat to their life and property.

Outside parliament, 200,000 workers held an anti-government rally and the Central Trade Unions and National Federation of Workers called for a nationwide strike on Jan. 19 — mainly against the government's new anti-strike powers.

PEKING, Nov. 23 (AP) - China's domestic news agency has told the people that a French diplomat who was living illegally with a Chinese woman was supporting and financing illegal dissident groups. It also was the stroogest attack on his girlfriend, who was arrested Sept. 9 and given a two-year term of reeducatioo through labor. The Chinese were infuriated at what they called French interference in China's internal affairs and said Miss Li had violated Chinese law. Every Chinese has a personal registration which states where he is permitted to

The China News Service report said correspondent Shuang Yin interviewed the departments concerned with the case and said Miss Li was not Bellefroid's fiancee and they had never heen given permission to

It said Bellefroid met Miss Li at an avantgarde art exhibition in September 1980 and, according to Bellefroid, "they fell in love at first sight." The report said Beilefroid was married at the time and his wife was working in Peking for the French news agency, AFP. Ten troopers gunned down in Philippines

MANILA, Nov. 23 (AP) - Muslim fighters gunned down 10 army troopers and wounded five others in an amhush on the remote southern island of Pata, where 121 soldiers were massacred in an attack last February, Philippines authorities said Monday. The Defense Ministry said two of the estimated 30 Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) fighters were killed and an undetermined number wounded in last Friday's ambush of the 15-man army patrol in Cayawan village.

The 10 troopers killed included an officer, identified as 2nd Lt. Antonio Yap. Military reports said fighters waylaid the patrol with heavy fire from automatic rifles and M-79 grenade launchers.

The MNLF has been fighting for Muslim self-rule in the Mindanao region. More than 60,000 persons bave died in the conflict since it began in 1972.

Pata, located 992 kms south of Manila, was the same island where an army colonel and 120 of his men were killed hy MNLF snipers denied cutting its oil price, saving it adhered to the resolutions of the organization of Perroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

Oil price cut denied by Libya

The official Libvan news agency Jana quoted Sunday a source in the Libyan oil secretariat as saying: "These false reports are designed to weaken the unity of OPEC." Industry sources said last week Libya a had offered tax cuts amounting to a price cut of at least a dollar per barrel to some firms that help pump its oil.

spokesman for the Conoco Company said Libva had offered the Oasis group of producers - Conoco. Marathon and Amerada Hess— a one dollar discount.

Jana quoted its source as saying the oil secretariat was discussing with some oil firms conditions under which they would intensify gas and oil exploration.

In another development on the oil front, the Soviet Union, faced with growing demands at home and in Poland, will have to cut its energy exports to the rest of Eastern Europe by up to 10 percent in the current five-year plan, according to informed Hungarian

Financial Roundup Dollar makes fresh gains

JEDDAH, Nov. 23 - The American currency continued its weekend rally on the Monday European exchange narkets, Dealers did not report anything significant to account for this rise, but the underlying optimism for the dollar seems to he based on the belief that European interest rates

Gold remained depressed at $396 per ounce with little buying support emerging. On the local markets, rival deposits firmed hy about a percent in the short tenors, but local dealers did not attach great significance to this.

Eurodollar deposit rates firmed slightly in the longer tenors, taking the one-year rate to 1318 - 13 4 percent, but short-term dollar deposit rates remained weak with the interbank one-month bids averaging 12 5/16 percent. The firming in the longer periods reflects the uncertainties in the money markets over long-term dollar trends, which most analysts expect to rise,

In the European exchange markets Monday, the Japanese yen continued its strengthening against the American currency and traded at 216.00 levels, up over the 217.20 levels seen Friday. Market opinion seems to indicate that the yen will probably reach the 210.00 level by the end of the week. The French franc and British pound slipped back, while the Swiss franc and German mark also dipped sharply against the dollar. These currencies are the ones hit most by rumors of impending interest rate cuts in the immediate future. For example, the German mark still beset by balance of payments deficir problems, has come under pressure recently to take the exchange rate to 2.2680 from 2.2530 levels Friday. The German Bundeshank has, meanwhile, indicated that the 11 percent Lomhard discount rate will-remain unchanged, adding further pressure the mark by speculative selling. The French franc fell back to 5.71 20 levels Monday - a drop of more than 41111 points over the Friday closing rate, while the Swiss franc fell back in sympathy with the German mark to trade at 1.81511 in Zurich Monday. The British pound stabilized somewhat at 1.8930 levels — a drop of more than one cent over Friday levels. despite determined Bank of England interest rate support on the money markets. Local riyal deposit rates firmed in sympathy with the dollar's rises on the exchange market. One-month JIBOR bid - offer rates opened at 6% - 7% percent hull closedup at 6 4 - 7 4 percent Monday. Similarly, the three-month rival rates were now quoted at 9 4 - 101 + percent, up over the openine levels of 9% - 10% percent. This is the first time in two weeks that rival rates have firmed but local dealers were not attributing anything special to the increases. Long-term rival rates were still stable special to the increases. Long-term riyal rates were still stable at 11 4 - 12 4 percent for the one-year fixed period. On the local exchange markets, the dollar's rise in Europe prompted a demand for the dollar and spot dollar/rival rates were quoted at 3.4195-05 up from opening levels of 3.4190-00. Bahraini — based brokers also reported some demand for the dollar in the

Soviets see EEC in military garment

MOSCOW, Nov. 23 (R) - The Soviet Communist daily Pravda said Monday joint West German-Italian proposals for development of the European Common Market were aimed at turning it into a new military bloc.

Commenting on a meeting of the 10 leaders of the European Economic Community (EEC) in London later this week, Pravda said they were planning to discuss military affairs and ignore the economic problems facing all member states.

"Their goal is to prompt Europe into making more military preparations, not for Washington's global ambitions this time, but under the pretext of consolidating the community itself," Pravda said. A second later report by the Italian government made it even clearer the aim was to turn the common market, an organization created for economic cooperation, into a new militarypolitical bloc, Pravda said.

By gaining more military might, the community hoped to gain more international prestige and influence, the commentary said, "But is it not clear that genuine international prestige is shaped by constructive participation in the cause of upbolding peace, and not by trying to launch new military preparations or knock new political groupings together." The newspaper added.

For World Cup Soccer finals

Austria, El Salvador qualify

DUESSELDORF, West Germany, Nov. 23 (R) - West Germany rubber-stamped Austria's place in the World Soccer Cup finals by beating Bulgaria 4-0 here Sunday. The Bulgarians went into the final match in Group One of the European qualifying tournament needing to beat the Germans hy a handful of goals to deny the Austrians a trip to Spain next year.

But as early as the fourth minute when Klaus Fischer scored with a powerful header it was clear that the Bulgarians would not be among the 24 countries in the hat for the draw in January.

As expected, the West Germans were as dominant as the final score suggests. They played their best football in the second half when European player of the year Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, scorer of a hat-trick in Wednesday's trouncing of Alhania, grahbed two goals and Manfred Kaltz one.

The victory preserves the European champions' 100 percent record of success in Group One and their goals tally of 33 for and only three against suggests they will be a formidable force in the final stages in Spain. Meanwhile, host side Honduras and El Salvador will travel to Spain next year after a disappointing three-week qualifying tournament ended in Tegucigalpa, Honduras

El Salvador were assured their place when Mexico could only draw 0-0 with Honduras in the final match of the group of six teams from North and Central. America and the Caribbean (CONCACAF).

The Salvadoreans were left waiting nervously when they finished their five matches on Thursday. Canada lost their chance for a trip to Spain Saturday when they drew 2-2 with Cuba, then El Salvador got the rest of the assistance they needed from Honduras Sunday. Mexico would bave clinched a place in Spain with a victory over the group win-

While Honduras's top position came as little surprise, the failure of Mexico, eight times previously in World Cup finals, to qualify for Spain shocked the region.

El Salvador got in despite scoring only two goals in their five matches, their rock solid defence carrying them through.

A meagre 28 goals were scored in the three-week competition and most commentators and fans appeared to agree that the matches were generally of poor quality. In Tanzania, Zambia gained a last gasp spot in the semifinals of the East and Central Africa Soccer Cup when they unexpectedly heat holders Sudan 2-0 in the final Group Two qualifying match, Striker Francis Kajiya was the hero of the nailhiting tie, scoring the important second goal three minutes before the end.

The goal dashed Zimhabwe's hopes of a place in the last four. They would have pipped the Zambians for second place in the group had the Sudanese restricted their opponents to one goal, Zambia now move to Arusha to meet group one winners Tanzania in Dar-Es-Salaam in the first semifinal on Tuesday. The second semifinal between Kenya, runners up in Group One, and Uganda will be played in Dar-Es-Salaam on Wednesday.

Zamhia's achievement in reaching the final stages is remarkable considering their side was chosen only four days before the tournament hegan. In general, the majority of players are opposed to most artificial conventions - and wisely so. They prefer to play on the basis that if partner bids spades he has spades, if he bids hearts he has hearts, and so on.

But as a player becomes more experienced and more sophisticated, he tends to add new conventions to his arsenal of weapons. And if he is by nature gadget-minded, he soon finds himself handicapped by a host of conventions that prevent him from employing perfectly natural

Protestants desert posts

Thousands rally against IRA

Protestants walked off their jobs at noon Monday to answer lan Paisley's call for a general strike to protest British policy in Northern lreland.

Most of the 7,000 workers at Harland and Wolff Shipyard in Protestant East Belfast, largest employer in Ulster, left their johs, as did 250 workers at the province's largest power station at Ballylumford.

Many schools and offices shut for the day, and towns in the Protestant heartland of the province were choked with car and tractor cavalcades as Ulster's loyalist majority rallied to demand a British crackdown on the mostly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army.

Paisley, firehrand elergy man and member of the British parliament, addressed 3,000 persons at a rally outside Belfast's City Hall on a hlustery, cold day. He was loudly cheered hy supporters waving red-and-white Ulster flags when he said: "This is Ulster's D-Day — Ulster's Deliverance Day." Many men in the crowd thrust their fists in the air in support of the hullhorn-voiced preacher.

Of the paramilitary "third force" he plan-ned to parade at a rally Monday night, Paisley said: "If we're going to resist, we have to put Ulster into a state of readiness. That is why there will he a third force. We will show the world from how onwards that Ulster is on the marcb...I call on every man and woman, boy and girl, to do bartle against the forces of the

Referring to the member of parliament whose murder by the IRA on Nov. 14 ignited Protestant anger, Paisley said: "I say in memory to Rohert Bradford, we will not fail you. No surrender. God save the Queen. Uister forever." The crowd sang the British national anthem and Paisley was hailed as be marched off down Royal Avenue, central Belfast's main thoroughfare. He headed for

ICC pleads for private enterprise

MANILA, Nov. 23 (R) — The president of the International Chamber of Commerce (fCC), Muhammad Ali Rangoonwala of Pakistan, Monday called for limits on goverument powers and more room for private enterprise to generate economic recovery.

"The destruction of the traditional limitations upon the powers of the state has spread into virtually every corner of working and family life, stifling individual initiative and responsibility." be told the opening session of a four-day ICC congress artended by over 1,000 delegates from 75 countries.

The ICC president said that extended powers and controls of governments had contributed to mounting inflation, protectionist pressures and the erosion of moral values in husiness ethics.

He added: "Either we make a strenuous effort to roll hack the frontiers of the state and establish a freer society, or we will descend into increasingly coercive forms of collectivism."

Sir Arthur Lewis of Jamaica, 1979 winner of the Nohel prize for economies, said industrial nations should allow more room for developing countries in world trade in manufactured goods. But he said Third World states could fairly easily trade more with each other and less with the developed countries. He said developing nations could become self-sufficient in food.

A petinon circulated at the rally called on Queen Elizabeth II to have the British government ahandon Anglo-Irish talks on cooperation between London and Duhlin. Protestants fear they could eventually sever Ulster's constitutional link with Britain, and force the province into political union with the mostly Catholic Irish Republic. The petition also asked Britain to impose capital punishment for terrorist murder.

Some 20 memhers of Paisley's vigilantestyle third force, wearing yellow armhands reading "For God and Ulster," joined police patrols of the predominantly Protestant Royal Ulster Constabulary in the border town of Enniskillen Monday.

Wolff Shipyard, dissension among Protestant memhers was apparent. Harold McCusker, official unionist member of parliament for Armagh who had opposed Paisley's action. said: "Whatever the misguided policies of this government, it is the democratically elected government. We will not change its policies by insulting it and ahusing the privileges of our own parliament. In doing so. we are insulting ourselves and the union we seek to defend. Those who do so are doing us more harm than our enemies."

Thirty thousand troops and police were on full alert. Protesting farmers in many diehard loyalist areas, including Ballymena, county Antrim, blocked off town centers with their tractors, police said.

Paisley seen as hero by many, bigot by some

BELFAST, Nov. 23 (R) — A hulking man with a fiery tongue, fan Paisley sees himself as the Protestant hulwark against Catbolicism and Catbolicism and reunification of Norhero Ireland with the frish

The silver-haired preacher-turnedpolitician is the man of the hour in the troubled British province, boldly attempting to assert his leadership and rally the Protestant population of one million hehind his militant brand of puritan politics.

He put his prestige on the line when be called of massive public demonstrations and strikes Monday to back up his threat to make the province ungovernable and teach the British government a lesson.

The prime object is to try to force the government to give up its flirtations with the Irish government toward some form of political solution that be fears will see the Protestant loyalists abandoned to eventual reunion with the Irish Republic.

Paisley feels the 11,000 to 12,000 Britisb troops stationed in the province to help preserve the peace have failed to bold the Irisb Republic Army (fRA) in check. He bas threatened to put his own army of 50,000 men on the streets to protect the Protestant's from IRA gunmen.

Praisley acknowledges that he is a likely IRA target and says he is not afraid of death. Nevertheless he takes precautions.

He travels in an armor-plated car and rarely moves without armed bodyguards. Earlier this year, snipers fired at his car as be passed through a Catholic area of Belfast, but no one was hit. Last week he claimed that British intelligence had revived a plot to assassinate him because "if they could get rid of Ian Paisley they would have a freewheel downhill to a united Ire-

British authorities denied any plot to kill Paisley. But they admitted heing worried that he was stirring up Protestant extremism and polarizing the sectarian conflict, which has already claimed more than 2,000 lives since violance flared in 1969.

While he is a bero to many anxious Protestants, on the other side of the sectarian divide he is regarded as a dangerous bigot by most of the 600,000 Catholics in Northem Ireland. They see him as more than just a roadblock to their dream of reunification with the predominantly-Catbolic republic. They fear he could incite a Protestant backlash and vengeance killings of Catholics in reprisal for IRA murders.

Opponents of Paisley charge that the 55-year-old clergyman was exploiting the present crisis to assert himself as undisputed leader of the Protestants. He indignantly denies this. But at the same time says of himself: "I am the person who has concentrated the force of Protestant people against Irisb unity.'

Paisley founded his own party called the Democratic Unionist Party to challenge the hold of the larger and more moderate official Unionist Party headed by James Molyneaux. He usually directs his booming oratory against the Catholic church and the frish Republic, which he calls "A priestridden hanana republic."

leader jailed

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 23 (AFP) — Danish Progress Party leader and crusading tax lawyer Mogens Glistrup was jailed for four years here Monday for tax fraud, fined 4 mil-lion crowns ($555,000), and debarred from practicing law for life.

Monday's high court verdict was the culmination of a seven-year criminal case against Glistrup, the longest in Danish legal

It overruled the more lenient sentence of a magistrate's court in 1979 against which he had appealed. That court found him guilty of tax evasion and ordered him to pay 1.9 mil-lion crowns ($263,000)in back taxes, plus fines totaling 1.5 million crowns ($208,000) or a six-month jail term.

Glistrup, a tax lawyer with a clientele of 20,000, first hit the headlines in 1970 with a public disclosure that he had paid virtually no tax on his vast earnings. The Justice Ministry swiftly opened investigations and by the summer of 1974 bad compiled nine counts of eral elections the same year his newly founded Progress Party won 27 seats in parli-

The investigation brought to light that hetween 1963 and 1972 Glistrup had set up 2,716 holding companies with a total capital exceeding 27 million crowns ($3.75 million), by means of which he was able to claim illegal tax advantages for himself and his clients amounting to nearly four million crowns ($

The fines imposed by the magistrates' court were described by Glistrup as an exoneration and a victory for his tax crusade. However, he immediately entered an appeal with the high court. After Monday's high court sentence, Glistrup said he would appeal

The case was "political", he added, and like other political dissidents in the world he was the victim of political persecution something Danish voters would understand at the Dec. 8 general elections.

Soviet woman cellist defects to U.K.

LONDON, Nov. 23 (R) - A Soviet woman cellist who defected to Britain last week has quoted Monday as saying she decided to stay in the West because the Soviet Union had denied her the chance of performing internationally.

Alfia Nakipbegova, 27, told The Daily Mail newspaper: "There was no future for me in the Soviet Union. I was simply not given a chance to perform or compete in an international competition."

She requested political asylum during a

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AFP) - President Francois Mitterrand would win more votes today than he did six months ago against Valery Giscard d'Estaing in the May 10 presidential elections, according to the Sofres public opinion poll published Monday by the conservative daily Le Parisien Libere.

Greece seeks closure of U.S. bases

ATHENS, Nov. 23 (AP) - Premier Andreas Papandreou has said his Socialist government will set a timetable for withdrawal of all U.S. military installations from Greece and put conditions for continued Greek membership in NATO.

In a major policy speech to parliament, Sunday Papandreou also pledged unilateral nuclear disarmament in Greece as a prelude to establishing a Balkan nuclear-free zone. He is the first premier to announce the presence of North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear warheads on Greek soil.

But Papandreou backed away from a previous pledge to call a referendum on Greece's membership in the 10-nation European Common Market.

The premier, leader of the Panhellenic Socialist Movement, told parliament he will give the U.S. adminisration a timetable for the U.S. military withdrawal in negotiations scheduled to begin early next year.

Solidarity rejects front offer

WARSAW, Nov. 23 (Agencies) — Lech Walesa, head of the independent trade nnion federation Solidarity, has said his organization is not ready to join the national entente front called for by party secretary and Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski, PAP news agency reported Monday,

The agency quoted Walesa as making the statement at a meeting Sunday night of Solidarity's Gdansk hranch. The meeting was marked by the mass resignation from the Gdansk branch presidium of 15 members, including Andrzej Gwiadza, a long-term opponent of Walesa, Gwiadza accuses Walesa of being too conciliatory with the authorities and of a tendency to "autocracy" in running Solidarity's affairs.

Walesa told the meeting, PAP said, that if, under the conditions currently posed by the government, Solidarity joined the entente front, "it would be only one of seven sociopolitical forces" in the front.

Such a prospect, he said, does not correspond to Solidarity's current position. Solidarity would only enter the front on condition that "society's three main forces - Solidarity, the Communist government, and the church — have a right of veto in it." He also noted that the government would like "to create the front first and only then solve unsettled problems," whereas Solidarity's position on this was the exact reverse.

Meanwhile, Poland's main dissident leader, Jacek Kuron, was questioned by police Monday after a raid on his home to prevent the founding of a new political organization that challenged the nation's Commun-

Kuron presented himself at police headquarters in the Mostowski Palace in response to a summons he received when police broke up the meeting Sunday. He told reporters that all 40 persons who attended the meeting received similar summons for different times and dates. They included officials of the Solidarity free trade union. Kuron was questioned for about one hour and later returned home. "We had mainly a general discussion. I refused to answer the detailed questions." Kuron told reporters.

Solidarity members were present at the meeting of the organization which operates under the title "Clubs of the Self-Governed Republic - Freedom, Justice, Independence." The Warsaw branch of Solidarity later issued a statement expressing support for the movement.

Bid on Duvalier denied by Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Nov. 23 (AFP) -The Haitian Information Ministry Monday denied rumors from Santo Domingo, the Dominican Republic, that an assassination attempt had been directed at Haitian President Jean-Claude Duvalier.

'That report is completely false, and the situation is perfectly calm, as anybody can see," a ministry spokesman said.

Streets were bustling as usual in this Haitian capital, where a conference grouping the ministers of sport from several Frenchspeaking countries was to open Monday.
